Chairs, bar stools and bistro tables
meet chair & table

Leading through communication.

Man's ability to communicate has been a success factor throughout evolution. Modern business, increasingly dependent on the intellectual and creative productivity of people, also lives from their communication.

Today's office environments therefore need to offer a variety of opportunities for people to talk to each other. About work and informally. With Sedus meet chair and table a sophisticated, comprehensive and highly flexible programme is available to this end – for the break area, the bistro or the meeting room.

Productive well-being within the meaning of Sedus Place 2.5 inclusive. For more information visit: www.sedus.com.

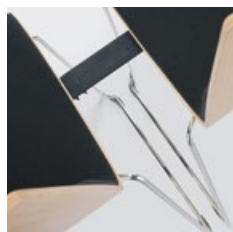

For outstanding ideas.

Those who think standing up from time to time come up with measurably more ideas than colleagues sitting down. The upright posture can also have a positive effect on meeting duration and efficiency. Elegant standing tables and bar stools are the foundation. In combination with the “over easy” connecting element, any location can be turned into a popular meeting place for spontaneous dialogue.

Multitasking talents wanted?

Light in design and stackable to save space, meet chairs can be used in many ways. In the conference room or for meetings in-between the open place workspace, for workshops or relaxed breaks in the bistro. Linked in rows they can be used as comfortable seating for training, lectures and occasional company events.

Comfortable. meet chair visitor's and swivel chairs are available in natural-looking wood or plastic shell. For the wood version, seat and backrest upholstery are available to choose from on request. The frames are made of chrome-plated steel. The four-leg version (optionally with armrests) is stackable up to 10 units, the skid version up to 14 units. Both variants can be optionally connected in rows.

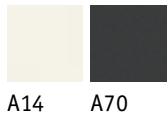

On the move. On request the swivel chair is available with easy to use height adjustment. The plastic star base is available in black and anthracite.

Upright. The bar stool is used in break areas as well as in communication zones. Three chrome-plated frame variants and many material and colour options are available to choose from.

Plastics. For the one-piece, flexible plastic seat shell in the monosandwich method, two different thermo plastics are placed within each other, creating one type of skin material and another type of core material in just one part. This enables us to produce parts with more functions and which comply with higher requirements. There are five colours to choose from.

Laminates. The wooden seat shells are available with two high quality laminate coatings.

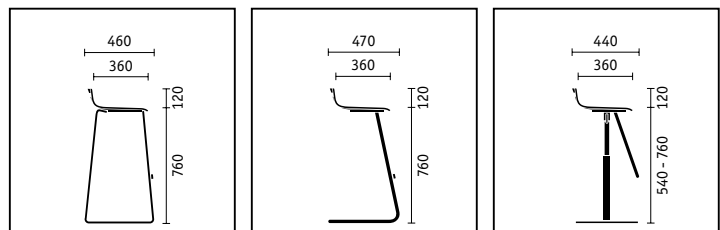

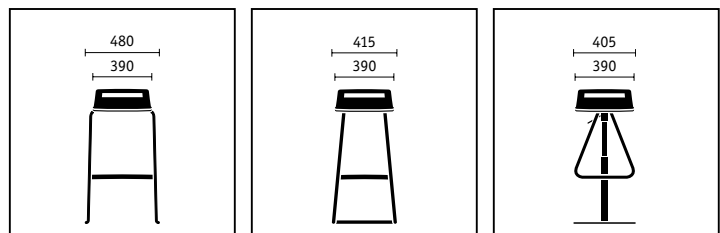

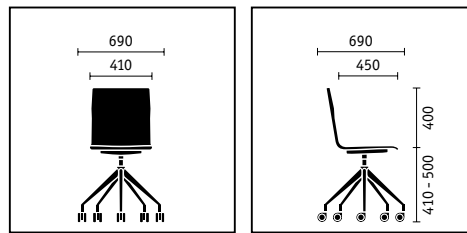

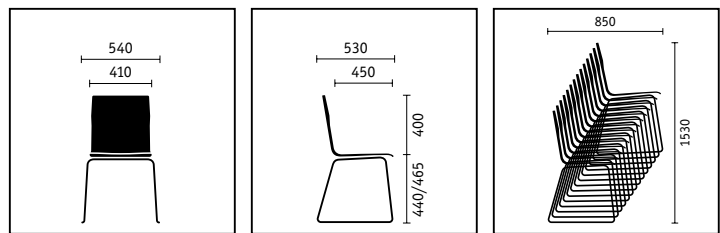

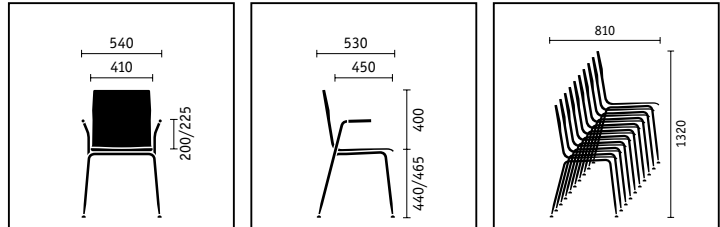

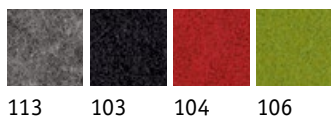

Stains. 18 colour-stained finishes can be specified, to create individual design accents.

Veneers. Five real wood veneers for a particularly elegant look.

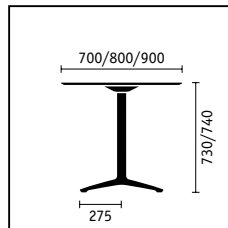

Felt. Seat covers in four colours matching the design for all chair versions without upholstery.
